OPPORTUNITY

This map shows that RICHMOND & BOND CO.'S NEW BUSINESS SUBDIVISION is located in the very heart of the Commercial Activity of Hickman.

The door to Mengel factories through which 525 men pass in going to and from work. It is located right at the gins and mill where the farmers bring their products. It is the closest business section to four residence additions that have been opened in Hickman recently. It is in the part of town which has grown like wild fire and is being talked about and will continue to grow at an enormous rate. Here is OPPORTUNITY. He who takes advantage of opportunity becomes successful. His neighbors think him a fool until success comes and then wonder how he did it. Will you see Russell Johnson and buy a $200 lot on easy terms that will be worth $2000 in a few years or will you stand off and watch the other fellow take advantage of OPPORTUNITY.

BARNES KNOCKS TEDDY

NEW YORK LEADER SAYS HYSTERIA IS RUNNING RIOT.

Roosevelt's Attack Upon Supreme Court Will Pay Way for Prostitution of Judiciary.

New York.—William Barnes, Jr., Republican state committeeman and leader of Albany, issued a statement in which he declares that the character of the recent addresses of Theodore Roosevelt in the West, "has startled all thoughtful men and impressed them with the frightful danger which lies in his political ascendancy."

Mr. Barnes' statement in part says: "At the coming convention it will be determined whether the Republican party of this state intends to bow its head to the political agitation of the hour, which is the cause of the palmy overhanging the business world today, or will stand firmly and in unshakable terms by its rock-ribbed, conservative principles, which have, when it is in power, given confidence to the business world and encouraged enterprise."

Hysteria has run riot throughout this country, expressing itself in one form or another, such as 'direct nominations,' the 'initiative and referendum,' the 'initiative and recall.'

"The recent attack upon the supreme court of the United States by a keen-witted and aspiring citizen could not have been made without a purpose well thought out. If this appeal against judicial decisions is popular and is not rebuked, there is no reason whatsoever, if a direct primary law should be enacted in this state, that candidates for judicial offices, compelled to run the gauntlet of a district or state-wide primary, would not, in order to appeal to the temporary sentiments of the moment, declare in advance their attitude upon matters which would come before them for judicial review."

PHILIPPINE REVOLT ENDS.

Leader of Uprising is Captured by Constabulary.

Manila.—The uprising in Nueva Vizcaya, led by Simon Mandac, the former governor of Ilocos Norte, came to an inglorious end Saturday when Mandac fell into the hands of the constabulary, having been seized and surrendered by the people of the province among whom he had sought to stir up trouble.

A few of Mandac's right-hand men also were arrested and his other followers dispersed. It is estimated that the band of outlaws originally numbered 500, but it dwindled soon to 200, and these had but few arms.

When the pursuit became hot, Mandac sought refuge in the home of a man who was subsequently killed when the people turned against the former governor and revealed his hiding place.

The Greatest Ever.

Sheffield, England.—At a meeting of the British Association Dr. Russell and Dr. Hutchinson, who have long been experimenting in soil fertility, announced the discovery of the micro-organism to the fertility of the soil.

Trust Head Arrested.

Rochester, N. Y.—As the result of disobeying a supreme court order to appear as a witness in the United States Independent Telephone case, now on trial, Breckenridge Jones, president of the Mississippi Valley Trust Company of St. Louis, arrested at Casa Nova, was brought to Rochester this afternoon. Efforts were made to secure the attendance of Mr. Jones at the first trial of the telephone suits last spring, and although served with a subpoena, he failed to appear.

Manito Beats Girls.

Manito Falls, N. Y.—The entire police force of this city and of neighboring villages is hunting a maniac who, without reason, attacked two girls in a field near here, bent one of them into insensibility with the butt of his revolver, placed the muzzle to the breast of the other and then, suddenly changing his mind, fled. The man said he was a New York detective. The two girls are Lillian Sherman, 14 years of age, and Lydia Fitzgerald, 20. The Sherman girl's condition is critical.

Letter from Syria

BY A. S. BARKETT

Speer & Sexton,
Hickman, Ky.

Dear friends:

As I haven't written you for some time about what we have seen and happened to us in this country, will write again. We haven't done any traveling except the local traveling. I mean by that we haven't had the chance to visit Damascus, and Jerusalem, neither the land of Palestine, as since we got here it has been rather too hot and dry to travel very far and have postponed our trip to Palestine until the beginning of next spring or late this fall. The country here is dry as a bone. It has not rained for three months and it will not rain the next three months, but we have very heavy dew every night so the farmers here raise very little corn except in the valleys where they can irrigate. Here in the county of Margoos they don't raise any corn except in the bottom land which is called the Valley of Haulin, they grow a large crop of corn and some rice and very little cotton. The land there is as rich as the land in the bottom below Hickman. But they still cultivate the land the same old way as they used to do the time before Christ. They use the cattle and the old fashioned plow tools and I think it is a slow way. I have been talking a great deal to the big planters about using the modern plow tools and the horses and mules to plow with, also the Turkish government is importing a great deal of modern tools and selling them at cost to the farmers so as to encourage them to use them all over the country. I think every farmer will be using them in five years.

The prices here of wheat, corn, barley, etc., are very promising to the great success of the farmers in this country, being considerably higher here than in America, more especially wheat and corn and all kinds of fruits and vegetables, and labor is twice as high as it was ten years ago. I fully believe that this country will be as good and as productive as any country in the world. I have visited all the neighboring towns and found some improvements in each one, some new up-to-date residences, better stock, more produce and more money spent for living and clothes than ever before. We went one day to a neighboring town called Elbid Saky, a town of about 1500. This town has some as good and as fine residence as there are in Hickman. The people are first class farmers and give careful attention to raising olive trees, grapes and the silk worm. The people of this little city sent most of their bright young men to Brazil, who are exporting a big lot of money to them. By such and the careful farming these people live very comfortable.

Last week we went to an old town called Hnshla, county seat of the county of Hasbia, of some four thousand inhabitants, half of which have migrated to America, Brazil, Egypt, Argentine Republic, and are all very successful immigrants. This town is greatly noted for the civil war in 1860 between the Christians and Mohammedans together with a tribe called Drause. They massacred over 800 of the very best men and took the town as a feast. In the town still stands an old castle at least 2000 years old, and it is inhabited by an old and well noted family, or rather colony called the Princeas Shahabs. Some three hundred people live in it at the present time. Mrs. Barkett and some of our Syrian friends went through it but I didn't because they are all Mohammedans whose women do not come out before men. We stayed in this town two nights the guests of our good friend, Mr. Kaulite, an uncle of Jim Barkett.

This week the weather is rather cool, a good breeze all the time, but last week was warm. The summer is late and it will be ten days yet before we can enjoy the fine grapes. Fruit and vegetables are short this year, due to the late spring, also a heavy hail storm which killed the most of the fruit. The crop of figs will come in about the middle of August, also watermelons and then we will have a fat time.

This is a bad country for doctors. People do not get sick. We are having good health, especially the children, who are growing rapidly and learning the Arabic language. Mrs. Barkett is also learning some Arabic.

Inside of ten days we are going to travel over Mount Lebanon which is very close to us. The mountain is pretty well inhabited. I will write you more fully after our journey is completed.

I will describe to you our old home Judlith. It is the county seat of Margoos, about 6000 people, half of them being in foreign countries. There are more old people, widows here than in any place I ever saw. It is situated on a hill, and a very pretty place when viewed from the east. The town is built like steps, and pretty well scattered, the town being about two miles long and one mile wide. Most of the people are merchants and politicians, none farmers, but some land owners, like R. T. Tyler, S. L. Dodds, T. A. Ledford and others. The people are very generous and good hearted, more especially to their guests, who they treat fine according to their customs which are different to ours in America.

Please give my regards to all of my friends in Hickman, especially to my good old friends in the bottom, and tell them that A. S. will be with them next spring ready to serve them all.

A. S. BARKETT.

THE BANANA.

The banana contains all the elements necessary to perfect food nutrition, and that in proportion closely approximating milk. It is, when properly ripened, easily digested and one of the best monodiet, especially in stomach and intestinal disorders in which fasting is "contra-indicated." The smallest of the fruit, being undeveloped, should not be eaten, nor any while any part is green or deep yellow. Cooking converts the starch into sugar, making it more easily digested, but spoiling largely the other food elements. Banana flour is made from green bananas, and while superior to wheat flour, is inferior to the ripened banana eaten in its natural state.

Kewanee System of Water Supply

No More Elevated or Attic Tanks

With the Kewanee System, the tank is located in the cellar, or buried in the ground. This tank is made of steel plates and will last almost indefinitely. The Kewanee tank rests on solid ground, and is protected from all extremes in weather; will not leak, freeze, overflow or collapse. In the Kewanee System, pumping the water creates the air pressure. For pumping the water any kind of power may be used with the Kewanee system—windmills, gasoline engines, electricity, steam, hot air, or any other kind of suitable power.

Our Guarantee

Every Kewanee System is guaranteed to give a first-class water supply and to do everything we claim for it. If it fails return it at our expense and your money will be refunded. We take all the risk.

His Last Service.

Rev. D. W. Bryant, who has for several months been pastor of the Christian Church of this city, will hold his last service for the year next Sunday, after which he leaves for Kimberland Heights, Tenn., to re-enter school.

The subject of his morning discourse will be "The Purpose of Life as Interpreted by Jesus." The evening hour, "Jesus Christ, the Son of God."

This young man has made many friends while in this city who will welcome him back. He is a persistent worker and has accomplished much good for his membership and the community in general.

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her

Knoxville, Iowa. — "I suffered with pains low down in my right side for a year or more and was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, and am glad to say that your medicines and kind letters of directions have done more for me than anything else and I had the best physicians here. I can do my work and rest well at night. I believe there is nothing like the Pinkham remedies." — Mrs. CLARA FRANKS, R. F. D., No. 3, Knoxville, Iowa.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial. Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it not cure you?

If you want special advice write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. It is free and always helpful.

Mrs. Jessie Burgoyne, of New York City, arrived in Hickman, Monday, to spend several days with Mrs. C. C. Smith and Mrs. Alice Amberg.

We have been trying to figure out whether it was a friend or an enemy that expressed prepaid to the address of one of the Courier editors a jug of whiskey this week. Hickman Furniture Co., headquarters for undertakers goods.

A. H. Leet said to a Courier man, this week, if every business man in our town could do business on a strictly cash system it would be a blessing to us all. If we all had to pay cash we would learn to live within our means. It would save business men the expense of bookkeepers and the loss of bad debts all of which some one has to pay for. If our town could gradually work into a strictly cash system it would be better for us all.

Clever Bank Cashier.

Abilene, Kas., Sept. 13.—The next time the directors of the Abilene State bank have dealings with a defaulting cashier they will know better how to handle the case. When Cashier John A. Flack's shortage was discovered he was compelled to turn over all his property and then he and Mrs. Flack took their suit cases and departed from the city. They left no address.

Now that the bank's books have been pretty thoroughly examined, the directors find that the shortage is $30,000 and that Flack's property will net them about $10,000. They have already paid into the bank the $20,000 difference. The question that arises is whether Flack had spent the $20,000 or whether he took that amount of currency with him. He might have the entire $30,000.

When Flack was asked in the presence of the directors how he had covered his shortage two weeks before when the bank was being examined he answered: "I took leave out of the ledger." The property he turned over to the bank was a handsomely furnished new house, a store building, equity in a farm, some town lots, a few mortgages, some bank stock and an automobile. He was known as a good liver.

Abilene, Kas., Sept. 13.—I. S. Hallman, president of the Abilene State bank, died following a collapse Friday afternoon. He died in the home built by John A. Flack, the missing cashier.

Good Job for Convict.

Pittsburg, Sept. 13.—John Francis, warden of Riverside penitentiary, and Edward Lewis, warden of Pittsburg jail, have many letters offering good positions to Joseph A. Haas, counterfeiter, who is to be liberated from Leavenworth prison January 11, thanks to the intervention of President Taft.

Because of his scientific ability and his delivering to the government authorities certain valuable secrets, Haas, who was sentenced four years ago by the Pittsburg courts to the government prison at Leavenworth, has had one year taken from his sentence by the president.

Gets Government Job.
The government authorities will themselves give Haas employment at a good salary—this being one of the terms of the agreement under which Haas revealed a cheaper method of getting gold and silver from bullion than that which the government has hitherto employed.

Haas is perhaps one of the most interesting and persistent criminals ever sentenced in a Pittsburg court. He was reared in the vicinity of New York by parents prosperous enough to give him a good college education. His college work ran chiefly to the laboratory, and shortly after his graduation he was arrested for burglary, having employed a new kind of explosive with which to enter a building. Haas argued his own case before a New York judge so clearly that the court took it from the jury and sent the young man to the Elmira reformatory.

Burglar for Scientific Reasons.
Haas' defense was that he had turned burglar to procure funds with which to pursue scientific research. Haas managed to talk his way out of the reformatory after a short stay, and then entered on a career of crime in earnest.

He was caught by the police in the vicinity of New York and on October 17, 1902, was sentenced to 20 years in Sing Sing for burglary. He appealed his case and got a reversal of judgment after he had served a few months of his term. He was caught soon again and on April 20, 1904, he was sentenced to 12 years and 10 months in Auburn. Again he appealed and again he was freed, this time on May 18, 1905.

Haas then came to Pittsburg, where, in the spring of 1907, he was tried and convicted for making and selling whiskey without license. Haas' whiskey was made largely of elder and mustard. He served four months in jail. In 1908 he was caught red-handed in the act of counterfeiting bars, and tried to stab the arresting officer. He got five years.

Jealous Woman Shoots.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 13.—Mrs. (Lela) Turner Krauss, former wife of the William Krauss of Memphis, Tenn., one of the most noted experts in yellow fever in the south and at one time dean of the University of Mississippi, shot and painfully injured Frank B. Griffith, a mining man of Los Angeles.

The shooting was the result of a long-standing argument between Mrs. Krauss and Griffith over allegations that the woman that the mining man had not only disappointed her in a mining deal, but had also broken with in his alleged promise to marry her. This argument has been carried on in various parts of the country for months.

She sought him in his office in the city building. Griffith was in the main room and his partner, E. B. Black, was in the private office adjoining.

Mrs. Krauss began the conversation with a repetition of the threats she had made before. Griffith made no reply and turned and walked toward his office, his back being toward the woman.

"I had taken but a few steps with my back toward her, when a premonition of instant danger swept over me and I turned," said Griffith. As I turned, I heard the report of the revolver and felt the sting of the bullet as it creased my chest and struck against my collar bone. I kept on moving, getting the second shot in the arm. I dropped flat to the floor and she lowered the gun and stood again. By that time Black, my partner, had come from his private office and seized the gun.

Mrs. Krauss was taken to police headquarters, where she stated that she had fired in self-defense. "I have been very unhappy since my marriage to Mr. Krauss," said the woman. "I was staying at the Angelus hotel here in 1918 when I met Mr. Griffith. We had several dinners together and often went driving. I returned east and he visited me at my home in Memphis and induced me to invest in a mining proposition. I had already entered into negotiations with my husband to secure a divorce and the amount of the settlement had been arranged. Griffith knew this and asked me to marry him and I agreed to do so as soon as I secured my divorce.

River Cutting Bank.

The sudden longing of the Mississippi River for Missouri soil has spread consternation among the people interested in Bird's Point, for the cutting there is worse than ever. For a stretch of two miles the erosion is in progress, and where the Cotton Belt landing now is the bank for a distance of 50 feet back from the river has disappeared since Tuesday night.

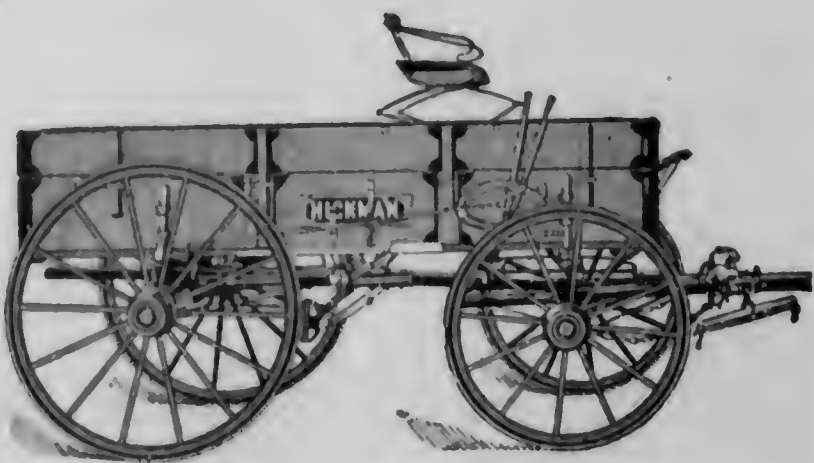

The Iron Mountain was the worst sufferer, for their landing was put out of business and passengers had to land half a mile further up stream and walk to the train. Baggage, express and mail has to be handled this distance, but a landing barge is to be provided which will make it possible to land near the end of the line. The other day several tons of earth fell crashing down upon the transfer boat as it was landed there.

The reason that the river has started cutting so suddenly is the big rise in the Mississippi and the low stage in the Ohio. It made the current very swift, and at this stage of the river it cut into the sand strata of the perpendicular bank, with the result that the surface kept breaking off and dropping into the river. At present the river is only a hundred feet from the levee at Bird's Point.

Cypress Shingles, $1 a thousand at mill.—Yates & Kirk Shingle Co.

A bashful young man in town was invited out to dinner. He was very much agitated. He sat opposite a mirror and discovered that he had forgotten to comb his hair. Then he dropped his fork on the floor and as he stooped to pick it up he upset his coffee. Matters went from bad to worse, until finally in despair the young man quit eating and put his hands under the table. The loose end of the table cloth was lying in his lap. He thought it was his shirt and that he had forgotten to put the garment in his trousers. He hurriedly stuffed the supposed shirt inside his trousers. Afterward when the family arose from the table there was a crash. The dishes lay in a broken mass on the floor. The young man pulled three feet of tablecloth out of his pants and flew to the woods.

SERVING OF FRUITS

MELONS ARE BETTER SERVED
WARM, SAY SOUTHERNERS.

Recipes for Salad Dressings—Sweet Wine and a Small Amount of Fine Liqueurs Used—How to Prepare Currents.

Fruits are so cheap and so good now that housekeepers should provide them in one form or another for each meal. Melons are at their best, so that it has become almost a matter of course to have them every day for one meal or another.

Southerners declare that people of the north spoil watermelons by too much chilling; that, like strawberries, they need the warmth of the sun in them; but the weight of opinion still seems to be on the side of the ice box. One of the most popular ways of serving watermelon is to split it in two lengths, then with a large spoon and a rotary "twist of the wrist" scoop out the luscious pink flesh in cone-shaped pieces. Arrange on a bed of green leaves or cracked ice and you will have a picture for the eye, as well as a delight to the palate. Cut in this way, which gives no waste, one good-sized melon will serve 15 or 20 persons, according to the size of the melon and the appetite of the diners.

At a recent luncheon the first course was chilled melon, which had been prepared in this wise: All the center of the melon was scooped out, rejecting the seeds. This was broken with a silver fork into small pieces, then put into a freezer with the addition of half a pound of powdered sugar and the juice of a lemon. The freezer was packed in salt and ice and turned slowly for 15 minutes until a mush-like consistency was obtained. This melon frappe was served in glasses with a teaspoonful of sherry added to each glass.

No summer breakfast is complete without fruit. While most people prefer it served au naturel, others with English predilections take more kindly to jam or some of the many stewed or steamed fruits. Others find a salad of fruit dressed with a few spoonfuls of sherry and sugar one of the best appetizers at the beginning of the meal, while still others, loth to give up their cereals, take a combination of fruit and cereal.

In serving fruits au naturel arrange them to please the eye as well as the palate. Nothing is prettier than leaves for decoration.

No prettier fruit for breakfast can be found than currants, red and white, on the stem. Put a border of the leaves about a pretty china or glass dish, and pile the fruit on them. Serve with powdered sugar.

Oranges for breakfast are easiest served cut in halves. They are delicious made in a compote with rice. Take the pulp out as whole as possible and drop into a rich boiling syrup, leaving it in just long enough to heat it through. Make a nest of rice, put the orange and pulp in it and serve with whipped cream.

Fruit salads are not nearly so well known as they should be. The dressing of a fruit salad for the gourmet is usually of sweet wine, with just a suspicion of fine liqueurs, but for ordinary use other combinations are preferable. Sweetened whipped cream, lemon juice, fruit juice, French dressing or mayonnaise are all used with fruit.

Stuffed Tomato Salad.

Chop fine one cupful of cooked ham and season with salt, pepper, celery seed and chopped onion. Add half a cupful of bread crumbs and mix to a smooth paste with French dressing. Stuff tomato shells and serve on lettuce with mayonnaise. Watercress salad is also good to look at and "gooder" to eat. Use the tender leaves of the cress. Let them stand in cold water to make them crisp and then wipe dry. Sprinkle over them a teaspoonful of parsley and olives, chopped fine. Add a few slices of sour apples and pour over it the French dressing which is made of one tablespoonful of vinegar, three tablespoonfuls of oil, one-half teaspoonful of salt and one-quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper. The two latter ingredients should be mixed in slowly. To garnish watercress a hard-boiled egg chopped fine and scattered over it is an improvement.

Cocoanut Cream.

Soak one-half box of gelatine in one cupful of milk until soft, then set in hot water until dissolved. Add one cupful of granulated sugar, stir until dissolved and strain. When cold and quite thick add one teaspoonful of vanilla, two cupfuls of freshly grated cocoanut and one pint of cream whipped to a solid froth. Stir and mix gently until very thick, then turn into wetted molds and set aside until thoroughly chilled and firm. The above proportions are sufficient for two good-sized molds.

Asparagus.

Begin at top, break into two-inch pieces until you reach the tough part of the stalk. This you peel thinly and break. Cook in boiling salted water; it will all be equally tender. Season with butter, pepper, and cream or thickened milk.

LADY OF THE MELTING POT

Yale College Has Honored Itself in Its Proper Recognition of Jane Addams.

Boston.—Yale university, one of our conservative institutions, has broken its precedent to confer upon Jane Addams the degree of master of arts. This not very robust little lady, says Current Literature, was fighting earnestly a few years ago to be made garbage inspector of her ward in Chicago. She used to rise at six in the morning in order to follow the garbage carts around from alley to alley and then to the dumps in order to see that the work was not skimped.

A short time ago she took her seat unostentatiously on the platform

Miss Jane Addams.

Woolsey hall with Theodore Roosevelt and Governor Hughes and J. Pierpont Morgan and James J. Hill, clad in an academic robe, to receive an honorary degree, while the classic walls resounded to the applause of an approving multitude. Jane Addams, master of arts—the very title shows how we are twisting the language in order to fit the old academic customs in which men alone figured to the new order of things in which women are recognized as having other capacities than those of the sweetheart and the housewife.

The idea of settlement work, which Jane Addams has done so much to expand and vivify and popularize is a new and potent kind of melting pot. Its idea is to create a mutual understanding between different classes of the community and between different races. Hull house, which Miss Addams and Miss Starr started in Chicago more than twenty years ago, has been a pioneer to a new realm of activity for thousands of men and women and a place where, as one writer puts it, Mrs. Flaherty of the Lake Shore drive and Mrs. Flaherty of Ewing street meet and find the human being in each other, to their own great surprise. For while Hull house does its work in one of the poorest districts of Chicago, it has never ceased to be the rage among people of the "upper" class. "In the final estimate," writes Graham Taylor in the Review of Reviews, "what she has done to reach to their rightful part and lot in the life of the community the classes isolated by the conditions of their labor or their poverty may not prove to be a greater service than what she has done to help the financially and socially resourceful classes out of their detached class-life into the struggle to make good their claim to a name and place among all their fellow-men."

For a stretch of two miles the erosion is in progress, and where the Cotton Belt landing now is the bank for a distance of 60 feet back from the river has disappeared since Tuesday night.

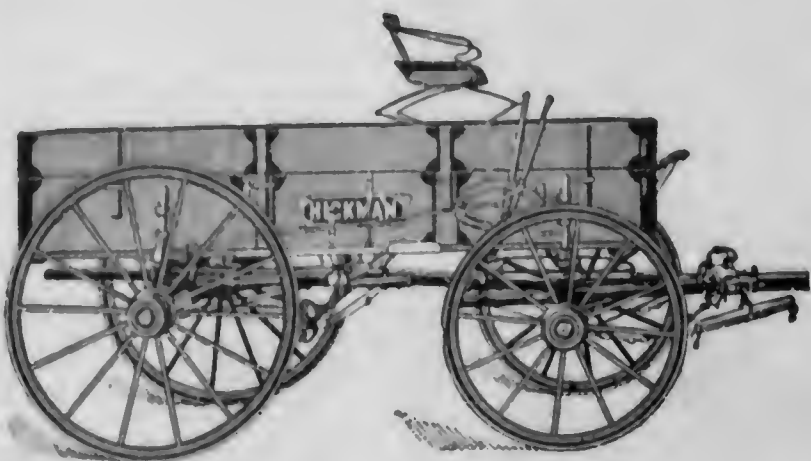

The Iron Mountain was the worst sufferer, for their landing was put out of business and passengers had to land half a mile further up stream and walk to the train. Baggage, express and mail has to be handled this distance, but a landing barge is to be provided which will make it possible to land near the end of the line. The other day several tons of earth fell crashing down upon the transfer boat as it was landed there.

The reason that the river has started cutting so suddenly is the big rise in the Mississippi and the low stage in the Ohio. It made the current very swift, and at this stage of the river it cut into the sand strata of the perpendicular bank, with the result that the surface kept breaking off and dropping into the river. At present the river is only a hundred feet from the levee at Bird's Point.

Cypress Shingles, $1 a thousand at mill.—Yates & Kirk Shingle Co.

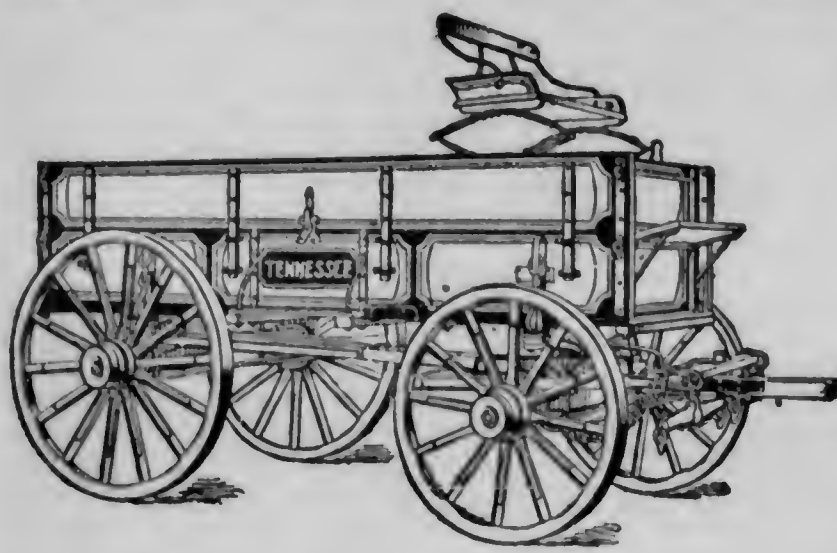

A hapful young man in town was invited out to dinner. He was very much agitated. He sat opposite a mirror and discovered that he had forgotten to comb his hair. Then he dropped his fork on the floor and as he stooped to pick it up he upset his coffee. Matters went from bad to worse, until finally in despair the young man quit eating and put his hands under the table. The loose end of the table cloth was lying in his lap. He thought it was his shirt and that he had forgotten to put the garment in his trousers. He hurriedly stuffed the supposed shirt inside his trousers. Afterward when the family arose from the table there was a crash. The dishes lay in a broken mass on the floor. The young man pulled three feet of tablecloth out of his pants and flew to the woods.

SERVING OF FRUITS

MELONS ARE BETTER SERVED
WARM, SAY SOUTHERNERS.

Recipes for Salad Dressings—Sweet Wine and a Small Amount of Fine Liqueurs Used—How to Prepare Currants.

Fruits are so cheap and so good now that housekeepers should provide them in one form or another for each meal. Melons are at their best, so that it has become almost a matter of course to have them every day for one meal or another.

Southerners declare that people of the north spoil watermelons by too much chilling; that, like strawberries, they need the warmth of the sun in them; but the weight of opinion still seems to be on the side of the ice box. One of the most popular ways of serving watermelon is to split it in two lengths, then with a large spoon and a rotary "twist of the wrist" scoop out the luscious pink flesh in cone-shaped pieces. Arrange on a bed of green leaves or cracked ice and you will have a picture for the eye, as well as a delight to the palate. Cut in this way, which gives no waste, one good-sized melon will serve 15 or 20 persons, according to the size of the melon and the appetite of the diners.

At a recent luncheon the first course was chilled melon, which had been prepared in this wise: All the center of the melon was scooped out, rejecting the seeds. This was broken with a silver fork into small pieces, then put into a freezer with the addition of half a pound of powdered sugar and the juice of a lemon. The freezer was packed in salt and ice and turned slowly for 15 minutes until a mush-like consistency was obtained. This melon frappe was served in glasses with a teaspoonful of sherry added to each glass.

No summer breakfast is complete without fruit. While most people prefer it served au naturel, others with English predilections take more kindly to jam or some of the many stewed or steamed fruits. Others find a salad of fruit dressed with a few spoonfuls of sherry and sugar one of the best appetizers at the beginning of the meal, while still others, loth to give up their cereals, take a combination of fruit and cereal.

In serving fruits au naturel arrange them to please the eye as well as the palate. Nothing is prettier than leaves for decoration.

No prettier fruit for breakfast can be found than currants, red and white, on the stem. Put a border of the leaves about a pretty china or glass dish, and pile the fruit on them. Serve with powdered sugar.

Oranges for breakfast are easiest served cut in halves. They are delicious made in a compote with rice. Take the pulp out as whole as possible and drop into a rich boiling sirup, leaving it in just long enough to heat it through. Make a nest of rice, put the orange and pulp in it and serve with whipped cream.

Fruit salads are not nearly so well known as they should be. The dressing of a fruit salad for the gourmet is usually of sweet wine, with just a suspicion of fine liqueurs, but for ordinary use other combinations are preferable. Sweetened whipped cream, lemon juice, fruit juice, French dressing or mayonnaise are all used with fruit.

Stuffed Tomato Salad.

Chop fine one cupful of cooked ham and season with salt, pepper, celery seed and chopped onion. Add half a cupful of bread crumbs and mix to a smooth paste with French dressing. Stuff tomato shells and serve on lettuce with mayonnaise. Watercress salad is also good to look at and "gooder" to eat. Use the tender leaves of the cress. Let them stand in cold water to make them crisp and then wipe dry. Sprinkle over them a teaspoonful of parsley and olive oil, chopped fine. Add a few slices of sour apples and pour over it the French dressing which is made of one tablespoonful of vinegar, three tablespoonfuls of oil, one-half teaspoonful of salt and one-quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper. The two latter ingredients should be mixed in slowly. To garnish watercress a hard-boiled egg chopped fine and scattered over it is an improvement.

Cocognut Cream.

Soak one-half box of gelatine in one cupful of milk until soft, then set in hot water until dissolved. Add one cupful of granulated sugar, stir until dissolved and strain. When cold and quite thick add one teaspoonful of vanilla, two cupfuls of freshly grated cocognut and one pint of cream whipped to a cold froth. Stir and mix gently until very thick, then turn into wetted molds and set aside until thoroughly chilled and firm. The above proportions are sufficient for two good-sized molds.

Asparagus.

Begin at top, break into two-inch pieces until you reach the tough part of the stalk. This you peel thinly and break. Cook in boiling salted water; it will all be equally tender. Season with butter, pepper, and cream or thickened milk.

LADY OF THE MELTING POT

Yale College Has Honored Itself in Its Proper Recognition of Jane Addams.

Boston.—Yale university, one of our conservative institutions, has broken its precedents to confer upon Jane Addams the degree of master of arts. This not very robust little lady, says Current Literature, was fighting earnestly a few years ago to be made garbage inspector of her ward in Chicago. She used to rise at six in the morning in order to follow the garbage carts around from alley to alley and then to the dumps in order to see that the work was not skimped.

A short time ago she took her seat unostentatiously on the platform

Miss Jane Addams.

Woolsey hall with Theodore Roosevelt and Governor Hughes and J. Pierpont Morgan and James J. Hill, clad in an academic robe, to receive an honorary degree, while the classic walls resounded to the applause of an approving multitude. Jane Addams, master of arts—the very title shows how we are twisting the language in order to fit the old academic customs in which men alone figured to the new order of things in which women are recognized as having other capacities than those of the sweetheart and the house wife.

The idea of settlement work, which Jane Addams has done so much to expand and vivify and popularize, is a new and potent kind of melting pot. Its idea is to create a mutual understanding between different classes of the community and between different races. Hull house, which Miss Addams and Miss Starr started in Chicago more than twenty years ago, has been a pioneer to a new realm of activity for thousands of men and women and a place where, as one writer puts it, Mrs. Flaherty of the Lake Shore drive and Mrs. Flaherty of Ewing street meet and find the human being in each other, to their own great surprise. For while Hull house does its work in one of the poorest districts of Chicago, it has never ceased to be the rage among people of the "upper" class. "In the final estimate," writes Graham Taylor in the Review of Reviews, "what she has done to reach to their rightful part and lot in the life of the community the classes isolated by the conditions of their labor or their poverty may not prove to be a greater service than what she has done to help the financially and socially resourceful classes out of their detached class-life into the struggle to make good their claim to a name and place among all their fellow-men."

HICKMAN, FULTON COUNTY, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, SEPT. 15, 1910.

WHOLE NO. 24922
ESTABLISHED IN THE YEAR 1850

WEAR SHIRT WAIST RIGHT

It Should Suit Your Style, Be Put on Properly and Pinned Where It Belongs.

"If you're going to wear a shirt waist, wear it right!" was the emphatic remark of one girl to another, as she surveyed disapprovingly the blouse worn by another, which "showed" in the back and was baggy under the arms where it should have been taut and trim.

In the first place, suit your shirt waist to your style. To some the severely tailored waists are infinitely more becoming than any other, while to another contingent the more elaborate, "dressed" waists are in better correspondence with the wearer. His waist which kind is best for you and hold to it.

Then as to accessories. Frills and pleatings may not be "your style," jabots and cascades no better. A short jabot may be becoming and one that falls below the bust line much less so. This is a discovery you are to make for yourself, and having made it, don't be tempted from your knowledge.

Don't think because you wear "just a shirt waist" you can get into it any old way. Put it on properly, pin it down where it belongs, establish close connections with it and the skirt, make it do you credit. A ten cent piece will look better and have more style properly put on than a hand embroidered linen that isn't. And don't forget it.

LINEN WAIST.

This waist may be made of either striped or plain linen, and in either case is trimmed with bands of plain linen ornamented with soutache and buttons.

The sleeves are finished with deep cuffs trimmed to correspond. The collar and wrist ruffles are of linen or batiste.

In renewing his subscription to the Courier, A. E. Dellow writes "Jack McDaniel and I are very comfortably and conveniently situated and as a consequence are very well satisfied. ## Swain's Big Shows.

The W. L. Swain Show has been pleasing thousands of Hickman's best people during the week under their big Kant Leck tent on the river front, presenting high class city attractions by an excellent company of players with all the scenery, pyrotechnia and effects that are seen in big city theatres at advanced prices. The prices of the Swain Co. are in the reach of all and never in the history of Hickman has a similar attraction drawn such enormous attendance. The Swain hold has caught the attention of the local public and Mr. Swain can easily be termed the King of tented theatres as he has the oldest, best equipped and by far the best show of its kind ever in this city.

The company opened Monday night to full capacity of the big tent, of being Nick Carter, King of Detectives, a modern detective story which has a beautiful romance to it and a strong line of comedy. The company more than made good as encores and applause were numerous, every member being compelled to take a curtain bow after the third act.

Tuesday night Knobs of Tennessee was seen by another large crowd and the verdict of all who attended was "A rattling good show."

Wednesday night Mr. Swain's new western thriller, the Arizona Cowboy was produced. This is the play that had its premier performance in New Orleans the only part of the season. This play was well attended.

Tonight Mr. Swain's own big production of the historical western comedy drama, Jesse James, will be presented with all special scenery, effects, etc. This is the play that has made the Swain Show famous and is owned and controlled by Mr. Swain. The two black face comedy parts are the greatest ever written. The show to night is bound to delight the large crowd that will be present.

Friday night the Swain company will be seen in Augusta Evans great American play, St. Elmo. This is society night and the Swain Company takes great pride in presenting this great play. The book has been read by millions of people. The ladies of the company are afforded great opportunity to display some stylish wardrobe.

The company will close their engagement here Saturday night in the western melodrama, The Younger Brothers. This play is not wild and woolly as the name would indicate, but one with a beautiful story of love and heart interest and a vein of comedy that runs through it that will keep the audience in an uproar from start to finish.

For Saturday matinee, the farce comedy, Happy Hooligan will be offered for the ladies and children, and the little girls' doll contest. Every little girl under ten years of age may enter the contest.

The people of Hickman will always welcome the Swain show back and we cannot recommend it too highly to the cities they will visit.

No Truth in Report.

All kinds of reports are being circulated about the purchase of Reelfoot Lake by a New York syndicate and about the Government making surveys at the lake. These reports are all, so far, without foundation. If a New York syndicate is trying to buy the West Tennessee Land Company says it knows nothing about it, but one of them states that they would entertain a proposition to sell. We opine that there will be nothing done with the property until the case is tried by the Supreme Court.—Union City Commercial.

SOME NOVELTIES IN HATPINS

Roosters, Pheasants and Owl Heads,
Some With Combs and Feet of Colored Jewels.

The woman who can not stand for Chanticleer hats can achieve a touch of the barnyard in her hatpins. There are roosters, pheasants, owl heads galore, from cheap ones of small size in imitation enamel or silver to huge affairs in rhinestones with combs and feet of colored jewels.

Some of these rhinestone pins are three inches long from comb to claws. Usually they present a side view when in the hat, occasionally they are set to look as if just stepping forth for a morning crowd, showing both sides of the body studded.

Huge colored enamel hat pins have superseded rhinestone ones for the moment, though the former when of good quality are always in style. A good-looking one has a large heart worked out in various tones of red enamel delicately lined with gold.

The girl who would make sure of having her powder puff ever with her now carries it in her hat pin. So huge are some of the new pins that there is room for quite a sizeable powder puff, when the hinged lid is lifted. So skillful is the workmanship that none but the initiated suspect the complex construction.

With a set of these pins one can be used for powder, the second for nail polish or rouge and the third for tiny charms.

Beads on Lingerie.

Parisian women who have adopted the fashionable "baby dress" (a waist out in one piece with the sleeves and terminated just above the normal waist line and a full hanging skirt, almost in directoire effect) are trimming these simple frocks with beads instead of embroidery.

Often the beads are sewed on net strips in flower or conventional designs, and then applied as girdles or skirtbands. White leads in favor, through the lighter pastel shades in fabric have bead embroideries to match them as closely as possible.

These are glass beads; it is almost the only place where the wooden beads have not driven them out. Iridescent and metal beads are also occasionally seen, especially in gowns with a touch of the prevalent oriental embroidery.

Sometimes an entire frock of mull or batiste is embroidered with single beads, giving the effect of a dotted material. The result is very pretty and quite unusual.

Mott Ayers and his red tie left this week for New York and will be out of the county a whole month. What a relief to the Fulton Tribune.

Hickman---Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow.

Looking Backward.

A decade ago when the year 1900 was ushered in Hickman was dozing peacefully. It was the same old town that had been here for years; no recent improvements were visible to the eye; stores looked old and dingy, the streets were bad, the waterworks pumped muddy water from the Mississippi river, when it ran at all, the light plant made electric lights once in a while and the old court house stood as a relic of olden times.

Growth.

About a year later the Mengel Box Co. built a small plant here which like a spark ignited the town to action and Hickman, feeling her possibilities, commenced to grow; the merchants commenced to put new fronts on their stores, improved their interiors and put in better stocks, the streets were made good, sidewalks laid, a new and up-to-date water works, light plant and ice factory were built, supplying the town with pure artesian water, ice as clear as crystal, and first class electric lights continually, a modern court house was built, a fine public library erected, new schools opened, a new telephone company chartered which is stretching its wires over the county and making city people out of the farmers, a new cotton gin and mixed feed mill have been built, a new bank established, several new additions opened and are rapidly filling with fine homes; Mengel's plant has been increased until now it covers half a mile of river front and gives employment to 525 men, the government has built a levee protecting the rich bottom land adjacent to the town and as fast as the timber is cut off the land has been opened up for farming and this together with the factories has created an enormous immigration of people to Hickman and the surrounding country and made one of the best and liveliest towns on the Mississippi river, which offers untold advantages for the farmers from the north to sell out at home and move to the heart of the Mississippi Valley, to the man who wants to invest his money for profit, to the manufacturer who wants a good location for manufacturing and shipping and to the wholesale and retail merchants who want the best place in the world to do business and make money.

Present.

The year 1910 was ushered in by Hickman with whistles blowing and bells ringing, a new town clock chiming the hour, and found a town that has doubled in population in ten years, and is up-to-date and expanding fast and is alive to its possibilities for the future.

Looking Forward.

When the year 1920 is ushered in and Uncle Sam comes to take the census, he will find a city of 10,000 people, having three railroads, the most up-to-date water transportation in the world with vessels coming through the Panama Canal, up the Mississippi River and landing at Hickman, all sorts of factories, including flour, cotton and hosiery mills, furniture factories, steam laundries and an interurban street car system extending in every direction through a thickly settled and prosperous country with a system of fine pike roads along which the farmers will split in their automobiles. Hickman will have new residences galore, tall buildings, paved streets and Uncle Sam will look up in astonishment and exclaim to the world, "This is my prize town. It increases 100 per cent in population every ten years. Keep your eye on Hickman."

The Blind Senator.

Oklahoma City, Okla.—No man in public life today has had a more remarkable career than Senator Thomas Pryor Gore of Oklahoma, whose charges of attempted bribery in connection with the sale of Indian lands stirred the country and brought about investigation by a congressional committee. Marvelous almost beyond belief were the struggles of this blind man—blind from early youth—to reach the great goal of his ambition—a seat in the senate of the United States.

Senator Gore was born on a farm in Mississippi in 1870, later being taken to the village of Waltham, when the latter was created. At the age of eight one of his eyes was jabbed out by a playmate. But he still had one good eye left and his grief was forgotten when some friends told him one day that he had been appointed a page in the Mississippi legislature. This career was, however, ended three years after the first accident by a fate so cruel and unusual that it would have crushed the spirit of ninety-nine boys out of any hundred in the land. While experimenting with a toy cross-bow, he himself shot out his remaining eye.

He was now totally blind, and had to give up his pageship. For the next five years his chief diversion was to hear his sister and mother read to him. Then a normal school was opened at his home town, and he entered, his lessons being read to him at home and by his schoolmates.

A debating society was organized in this school and the blind boy joined and displayed a wonderful aptitude for debate. One day a companion found an old volume of the Congressional Record. Going to an old stable the companion would read to him the speeches of the lawmakers at Washington and then there entered Gore's breathe the ambition to be a United States senator—an ambition that never left it, even in the darkest days that followed.

In 1891 his fame as a speaker had spread locally and he received many invitations to address farmers' picnics. The last day of 1895 he left Mississippi for Texas under a solemn vow never to return to it unless as a United States senator.

That year in Texas was a hard one. Gore threw himself into politics with passionate energy. Again and again the family was reduced to the verge of physical suffering. Yet year after year they kept up the fight for existence without complaint. Nor did the blind lawyer once despair of reaching the senate, writes James Creelman in Pearson's Magazine.

When Mr. Bryan was nominated at Kansas City in 1900 Gore found his way to the crowd that surrounded the convention. He managed to live in Kansas City for six days at a total cost of $3.50. No one who heard his voice ringing out over that scene of national enthusiasm was permitted to know, or even suspect, his poverty. Then he obtained an engagement in South Dakota to speak during the state and presidential campaign. In this way he picked up $1,000 and with it went back to Texas and married.

The Gore's—including his father and brother—decided upon going to Oklahoma. In April, 1902, Gore managed to go as a delegate to the territorial convention that was to choose a delegate to congress from Oklahoma, and was given a seat in the territorial senate. That summer the blind man had another terrible struggle to keep alive. One day in June he had only eight cents left. He held a war council with his wife to consider what they should do with the eight cents. It was decided that the money should be spent on postage in an effort to secure speaking engagements. The political fight had to be kept up at any cost.

The fight for a seat in the United States senate was now pressed systematically. Gore spent the year 1903 in widening his acquaintance, attending picnics, barbecues and county fairs, lecturing for anything from $5 to $25, shaking hands with the crowds and smiling his way into their hearts. His friends wanted him to abandon his ambition for a time and run for congress. "It is the senate or nothing," he replied.

Gore won his fight in the primary election and was elected to the United States senate by the legislature, drawing the short term. In 1908 he was re-elected.

Two of Family Die.

The grave of Bennett Langford had scarcely been filled Tuesday afternoon, when his brother, Lee Langford, died at the home of his parents a few miles southwest of town. Both died of typhoid fever, which seems to be unusually fatal this year.

Lee was 14 years of age, next to the youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Langford, and Bennett was the oldest.

It is judged hard to give up one child, but to lose two in the same week is doubly sad. He was a bright promising little fellow and his death was a hard blow to the grief-stricken parents. He had been sick for several days yet his death was unexpected.

His remains were laid to rest yesterday afternoon beside the newly made grave of his brother at Brownsville cemetery, Rev. King conducting the funeral services.

The death angel has left the Langford home in utter sorrow and darkness, and the heartbroken parents have the fullest measure of sympathy from their many friends.

Methodist Revival.

On Sunday, September 28th, a revival meeting will start at the Methodist church, conducted by Rev. Meadows, of Trenton, Tenn., assisted by the local pastor, Rev. G. W. White. Rev. Meadows comes to us very highly recommended. At present he is preaching at Ripley, Tenn. Speaking of him, the Commercial Appeal and Rev. Meadows is not of that emotional type of evangelists, but on the contrary is plain, practical and conservative. He does not appeal to the enthusiasm of his audience, but to the intelligence and judgment of the individual. He has been quite successful in meetings elsewhere, and the prospect of a great revival at Ripley is imminent.

My business is increasing and I am making photos for the best people in Hickman. Why not yours NOW? By Gish.

FANATICISM NEARLY FATAL

Woman, Insisting on a Seven-Times Immersion, Is Almost Drowned in Self-Administered Baptism.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Insisting that she must be baptized in her own way, a woman who gave the name of Mrs. Sophie Plum, came near drowning in the presence of at least 3,000 spectators on the Delaware river banks at Gloucester. She was rescued in the nick of time by a man in a launch and afterwards revived in a nearby building. The big crowd was thoroughly thrilled by the exciting spectacle as the woman endeavored to reach a rude cross planted in the river about 20 yards from shore.

The Rev. William Pickersgill, head of the Helping Hand church, Gloucester, had announced several days before that there would be a baptism in the river. But there was some hitch in the program. Mrs. Plum was anxious for the ceremony, but she insisted that she must be immersed seven times in accord with her conceived notions of biblical injunction.

Pastor Pickersgill said he could find no authority for such a ceremony, and when he appeared before the crowd on the shore he announced that the ceremony would not take place. He had helped plant the cross in the sand with rocks about its base, when the tide was low, just as Mrs. Plum desired, but there would be no ceremony.

"Yes, there will, brother," exclaimed Mrs. Plum, who suddenly appeared in flowing white robes.

"We are not led to perform this ceremony and we shall have nothing to do with it," replied the pastor. Undaunted by the rebuff, Mrs. Plum strode into the water and made straight for the cross well out in the current. Before she could reach it she was swept off her feet and was quickly struggling for her life. Of all the thousands who saw her, Gilbert Porch saw that she was really drowning, and jumping into a launch, managed to get her ashore, where she was resuscitated.

Public Schools Open.

On Monday, September 12, Hickman threw the doors of her three school buildings open to the largest enrollment in her history.

Hickman not only has the largest enrollment in Fulton county, but in Western Kentucky, excepting alone Paducah and Mayfield.

Three cheers for Hickman!

When Prof. Gasky came here we had six teachers and one building; now we have twelve teachers and three buildings, several special teachers and an enrollment basing on towards seven hundred.

Another teacher is yet needed to relieve the congestion in Miss Sherrou's room.

Our high school has a strong four years' course and is accredited with all the colleges and universities in Kentucky, thus admitting her graduates without examinations into these higher institutions.

Since this high school is free to all children in Fulton county, and as our large library is open to them while attending here, all parents should resolve that their children must graduate from the Hickman High School.

Will Draw Jury Monday.

The jury wheel will be opened for the September term of the Fulton Circuit Court by the presiding judge Monday morning, and the sheriff and his deputies will summon them in the afternoon to be at the court house on Tuesday morning. At each term of court the wheel is opened to get jurymen for the next term, but the key to the jury wheel was lost at the May term and the wheel could not be opened according to law until this term. Consequently there have been no juries summoned.

All orders for flowers receive special attention.—H. E. CURLIN.

Reeves--Saunders.

The following from the Commercial Appeal will be of interest to the bride's many friends at Cayce, where she lived for several years. Mrs. Sanders is a niece of Mrs. Jim Sanders, of Chicago, and has many friends in Hickman who extend their best wishes:

A pretty wedding was quietly solemnized last evening at the home of Mrs. Laura A. Reeves, 684 Walnut street, when her daughter, Mary Jessie, became the bride of Flavius J. Sanders. Only relatives and most intimate friends were privileged to witness the ceremony, which took place at 7:30, the Rev. W. H. Shoffer officiating. Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Sanders left for a bridal trip to Chicago and other points.

Fall and winter samples are here.—Schmidt, the tailor.

Quarterly Meeting.

Quarterly meeting will be held at the Methodist Church in this city next Sunday. Presiding Elder J. G. Clark will preach at both the morning and evening hour. Quarterly conference will be held at the same place Monday evening. Officers of the church are especially requested to be present.

Bob Buchanan arrived in Hickman from Mobile first of the week to visit his uncle, H. Buchanan, and old Hickman friends.

Woodland Mills.

Richard Prather entered the high school at Union City this week.

Davis Flack and sister, Mary Hunter, are the guests of relatives here.

Miss Mary Prather, of State Line, is the guest of her cousin, this week.

Harry Threlkeld and wife, of Hickman, were the guests of his parents Sunday night.

Mrs. Sallie Cross and Miss Lena Jones have returned to their homes in Blytheville, Ark.

Friday afternoon, Miss Bettie DeBow entertained a number of friends at Rock. Grape juice was served during the games, later refreshments of cream and cake. The guests were Mesdames Carl Schmidt, Henry Sangster, John Meacham, F. M. Case, Will Helm, Misses Ruth Ellison, Irene Farls, Annie Cowgill, Irene Helm, Hazel Johnson, Charlotte Hubbard, Bertie May Rice, Lucile Bonduant, Estelle Renneau, Virginia Prather, Mabel Wilson, Mildred Ramago, Mayme Naylor, Marguerite Fuqua and Miss Cleona Weatherholt, of Cloverport, Ky.

Harry Downing, of Tiptonville, was in town yesterday. He is an uncle of the two Tiptonville young ladies on whom an attempted assault was made Saturday night. The negroes were lynched by a mob Tuesday night after being taken away from the sheriff and his deputies.

MILLET & ALEXANDER

After nearly 100 years it has been discovered that the main line between the States of Missouri and Arkansas—36 degrees, 30 minutes north latitude—is not straight and it is suggested that the surveyors made a mistake and the error should now be corrected. That would give Arkansas the counties of Pemiscot and Dunklin and a strip off the south end of New Madrid county, including Portageville and Point Pleasant.

Our readers and friends will confer a favor if they will send the Courier information of arrival and departure of themselves or any other matter of interest for publication. When you are in town come in and tell us any item of news that has happened in your neighborhood. We will be very glad to have it.

Nearly every man who ran on the ticket with Beckham when he was a candidate for the United States senate, and most of the time servers, who enjoyed the patronage he dispensed as governor, are now in the alliance against him; and Beckham, defeated because of his relations to these same time servers, is allied with the crusaders who would restore Democracy to its pristine purity.

Good Bunch of Colts.

There was quite an interest taken in Roper's colt show Monday. From the looks of the number of buggies and horses hitched about the premises it looked more like an old time barbecue than a colt show. A greater number of fine colts was probably never seen together at one time before, there being 52 colts shown, and a number there that were not shown. The premiums awarded are as follows: Aristocrat, first, Berry Threlkeld; second, W. J. Maddox; Oseola, first, E. G. Maddox; second, Lee Rose; Mohawk, first, S. L. Royster; second, Geo. Threlkeld; Black Boy, first, Marlon Honeycut; second, Al Brevard.

We're Not So Bad.

Hickman was very properly considered in the district of the recent night rider troubles. Now the public is beginning to learn that newspaper reports were greatly exaggerated. Rev. W. L. Norris, of Memphis, who held a meeting in the very heart of the night rider district has this to say:

While the revival in Memphis is bearing fruit, it is hardly more successful than that in which Garrett Johnson, condemned in the courts to be hanged as a night rider, went to the altar of a little church called Antioch, in the Redfoot district, and offered himself for prayer.

Mr. Norris says he was never better treated in his life than he was by the very people who are considered by the outside world as social impossibilities. "I was so well treated," said the evangelist, "that I am resolved to go back there in the hunting season and shoot ducks."

"A stranger who goes to the Redfoot district today will find that he was either mistaken about conditions there or that there has been a remarkable change there since he formed those opinions. The people are humiliated by the fact that they are considered hardly civilized, and they are doing what they can to correct or wipe out old lupronousness."

"While I think a real estate investment in any part of the South would be a good investment, I know of my own knowledge that certain loan companies have refused to accept real estate near the lake because of its traditions. The more the history of this people is a financial consideration of the wrong sort, and the people recognize it."

"At Antioch church I gained nine pounds in twenty days and never felt better in my life."

President to Speak Word of Warning to Makers of Constitutions.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 13.—When the proper time comes President Taft will have something to say about the constitutions of Arizona and New Mexico, the new states which his insistence has made full members of the Union.

Advice was recently given by Colonel Roosevelt to the people of the new states to leave a loophole for the amendment of their constitutions. Whether President Taft agrees with this sentiment is not known. He has adopted a policy of wise silence regarding the declarations of the former president.

HELD GUILTY OF MURDER

James Humphrey is Convicted at Trenton, Mo., of Slaying Enemy in Feud.

Trenton, Mo., Sept. 13.—After deliberating 22 hours, the jury found James Humphrey guilty of the murder of James Hatcher January last. Humphrey was sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary.

Hatcher's murder was the result of a neighborhood feud. He was shot ten times.

A Glance at the Past.

New York.—In this day of great mechanical achievement about all the children of this generation know of the early day sewing machines, bed warmers, household looms and other like necessities of our grandfathers must be gained from old photographs and the printed page. To the past, however, these inventions were fully as notable and important as the modern ones of our day.

In an accompanying cut is shown a chain stitch sewing machine of about a half century ago. The first real sewing machine—one used in sewing cloth, was invented about seventy years ago, and like so many other inventions, it was an American product. More than three-quarters of a century before that there was a machine patented in England for use in sewing embroidery, and in 1770 an improved machine for the same purpose, followed by another for sewing leather gloves. Still others performed crochet work, but none was really intended for the work of the sewing machine which came yet later.

Elias Howe set the ball rolling in 1846 when he took out his patent for the needle with the eye in the point and the shuttle for uniting two edges in a seam, the stitch being made by interlocking two threads. Like so many inventors of that time he had much difficulty in enlisting the necessary capital to place it on the market. But in the introduction of it the attention of scores of inventors was turned towards the usefulness and necessity for sewing machines, and patents by the hundred subsequently were secured.

The plow has more ancient history than any of the articles mentioned. While the one shown in the illustration goes back nearly a century and a half, the first plows date back to the days before Christ. In fact, the very earliest records speak of the plow. On some of the monuments of Egypt a plow made from the limb of a tree is shown. In Palestine, three sticks arranged to support each other were long used, one of them being sharpened to a wedge. This same type of plow is used today in Ecuador. In some countries camels are used to draw practically the same kind of plow.

In the early part of the eighteenth century in Europe progress began to be made in the construction of plows, the first one coming from Holland to England, where deep tillage was being practiced. A Scotchman was next to improve on the plow, it is said, and in 1785 a patent was taken out in England for a castiron plowshare. Later still came the case hardening or churning.

Among those in the United States who contributed to the development of the plow were Thomas Jefferson and Daniel Webster. Webster, it will be recalled, took a great interest in things agricultural and often went into the fields of his own farm and held the plow handles behind yokes of oxen.

Although better plows were then available, in slavery days in some portions of the south a plow comprising a blade shaped not unlike a flatiron was attached to the end of a sort of tongue. At the other end of this tongue was a cross-stick which could be used by two men in drawing it. Because of the sandy soil the work was not particularly laborious.

The plow shown in the accompanying cut has no iron in it except the plowshare and the bolt pinning it. The framework is all fastened with wooden pegs. This relic is owned today in Houseville, N. Y.

False Teeth Nip a Bather.

Wildwood, N. J.—Howard L. Strickler, manager of the Wildwood Crest office of Baker Bros., the founders of this resort, had a peculiar experience while bathing in the surf. He felt something biting his foot, thought it was a crab, but upon investigation found imbedded in his foot a set of false teeth that had been lost by a lady cottager who had sneezed while bathing in the ocean. The teeth were later returned to their owner.

Forget to do any one an injury, but remember to do every one a kindness.

The Royal Tailors Made-to-Measure Garments

THIS seasons Royal Fashion Plates have created a tremendous enthusiasm among our dressers. The styles, the lines, the art work, the reality and human interest in these plates have been pronounced everywhere as the greatest achievement in fashion art.

Conservative clothes, with just a dash of red blood and ginger in them—clothes of clean cut lines, of refinement and quietness, are all the rage this year.

I have a large showing of all-wool samples, and one hundred large swatches, 1 1-2 yard to the piece, from which you can draw a correct idea of just how your suit will look after it is made to your individual measure.

You have a cordial invitation to come in and look through the styles and samples, whether you wish to purchase or not.

We've Been Fussy

in selecting our Autumn cravats—so fussy you could pick with your eyes shut and be sure of getting desirable ones.

Hear about it? Fashion favors reds, Persians and browns. We've all three in abundance.

Tired of the sameness and tameness of plain patterns? Then look at the Persians by all means.

Rich and rare silks from the Orient in fantastic designs and bewitching color harmonies.

The largest line ever brought to Hickman.

Slickest picking now.
